Executive Summary

This particular site has been placed on the Comprehensive Emergency Response Compensation and Liability Act Information System (CERCLIS), as a result of its identification during the federally funded Surface Impoundment Assessment study of 1980. In this instance, the owners name and business address were erroneously identified as the location of the surface impoundment.

An extensive search of Agency files and a personal interview with a principal party has provided information on the location of the surface impoundments. The impoundments are located in two areas in Illinois. One is in Schuyler County and is associated with a coal mine, while the other is a carbon recovery operation near St. Louis. Both locations were supposedly permitted by the Department of Mines and Minerals. Exact location of the impoundments is unknown, but Mr. Ledbetter did say that they have been sold to another company.

It is unknown whether the sites are still active, or if the impoundments have been closed properly. A no further action is recommended for this site at this time.

What I Said:

① Introduced myself and asked if the company ever owned or operated any surface impoundments?

③ Were they permitted by an Agency?

⑤ Do you know the exact locations?

⑦ Thank You.

What Other Party Said:

① At one time the company owned a coal mine pit in Schuyler County and a carbon recovery operation near St. Louis.

② Yes, when we sold the rights to another company, they were permitted by the Department of Mines & Minerals.

③ All I know is there was one near St. Louis and one in Schuyler County.
